

City dentist wins three awards

STAFF from a Cambridge dental practice were celebrating after picking up three industry awards.

Devonshire House Dental Practice near Addenbrooke's was awarded Best Practice UK 2015, Best Practice South and Practice of the Year South at two national dental award ceremonies last month.

The judges said: "We are sure that this enterprising practice with a large team of 63 staff will not rest on its laurels and will strive to continually improve, undoubtedly leading to further success and well-deserved recognition".

Anne Griffiths, practice manager said: "We are thrilled to have received these awards and are proud of and delighted for our wonderful team at Devonshire House. It is an honour to work with lovely patients and referring dentists, as well as our superb staff and suppliers."

Devonshire House, on Queen Edith's way is also a referral centre for specialist treatment and a dental education centre.

Having introduced an education programme in 2015, the team now train fellow dental professionals from across the country on a range of courses and individual mentoring sessions.

RECOGNITION: Staff from Devonshire House Dental Practice received the Best Practice South Award at the Dentistry Awards. Pictured are nurse Hayley Drennan, specialist prosthodontist Nick Williams, practice manager Anne Griffiths and reception manager Julie Herring