

Dental Group Celebrate Prestigious Acquisition

Devonshire House, the established specialist dental referral practice in Cambridge, has become the latest acquisition for Riverdale Healthcare, a growing independent dental group.

With 12 surgeries and 14 specialist dentists, Devonshire House supports over 200 referring dental practices as well as providing family dentistry for its own patients. Advanced technology, equipment and techniques allow the clinical team at Devonshire House to Do clever things such as,.

Former partner and now Clinical Lead at Devonshire House, Julian Martin said, "I am delighted that we are aligning ourselves with Riverdale, who share the long established mission of the whole Devonshire House team to continue to develop the Practice in exciting and rewarding ways.

We will continue to support our network of referring dentists exactly as before, and are looking forward to welcoming our colleagues back to Devonshire House to observe procedures, and for training and mentoring when the pandemic allows."

A key focus for Devonshire House is providing state of the art learning, with regular hands-on training programmes delivered by both the inhouse team and external partners for dentists, hygienists and nurses.

The practice's own onsite dental laboratory employs 8 technicians and is fully equipped for digital dentistry with design, milling and 3D printing capabilities.

Emma Barnes, CEO of Riverdale Healthcare, who is personally managing the integration announced, "We are thrilled to have Devonshire House recognise the synergy of our ethos and values with their own. This is a really exciting acquisition and we are delighted that the partners, who were courted by other dental groups, have chosen Riverdale to support the practice team.

We are on an exciting journey at Riverdale and with the addition of Devonshire House we are charged for a year of opportunity and positivity."

The deal, which was backed by healthcare investors Apposite Capital and managed by Pinsent Masons, sees the group now stand at a total of 27 practices. Chief Investment Officer, Chris Aylward added, "We have established a fantastic team with Pinsent Masons and Hazelwoods Accountants, to take the strain out of a sale. The process is relatively simple and we are actively speaking with dental practice owners who want to learn more about Riverdale Healthcare and how we can support their exit strategy."
