

Devonshire House says farewell to Balraj Sidhu

It is with a heavy heart that I have decided to leave Devonshire House in order to pursue my career closer to home to reduce my travelling time. This has not been an easy decision to make as I have so enjoyed my short time here. It has been my privilege to look after your dental health and I will greatly miss seeing you. I have been fortunate to work alongside excellent colleagues and support staff, who are passionate about providing the very best in patient care; and I know you will continue to be very well looked after by them following my departure.

I understand that a change of dentist can be daunting and I recommend you to the excellent care of our Specialist Prosthodontist Guy Stephens who works at our main practice. Like me, Guy offers general and specialist dentistry and he will be delighted to meet you.

You may already have received a recommendation to transfer to another of our team and I would like to reassure you that all of our dentists will be happy to continue your care.

With very best wishes
